

Short but good lesson. Friendship takes over

A kid named Billy was new to his school and he was bullied because of his clothes. Many kids didn't like Billy because he was very shy, didn't talk and had no other friends.

One day a couple of kids took Billy to an alleyway, where they started bullying him again and then they began beating him, punching and kicking. Billy was crying for help, but no one could hear him.

Then suddenly a large shadow appeared over the boys and they turned around to look. Suddenly a woman who looked like a superhero appeared. She started teaching the boys a lesson by giving them some of their own medicine, except she wasn't mean and only slapped them.

The boys fell to the ground, while Billy stood up and thanked the woman. Then she started giving important life advice while the boys understood their mistake and apologized to Billy. Then everybody had a big group hug and they went to get some ice cream.
